My word shall not return to me void. (Isaiah 55:11)

In today's Gospel, Jesus uses the image of seed sown on different kinds of soil to teach his listeners about the fruitfulness of God's word (Matthew 13:1-23). Every seed has the same potential for growth; it is the type of soil that determines how abundant the yield will be. The prophet Isaiah seems to say the same thing: God's word, like the seed, always remains fruitful- it will not return void. So it seems that our human response determines the harvest.

"Have mercy on me, God, in your goodness. Help your word to bear fruit in my life today."
